

ABOUT ROB

Rob has been held now for 19 years in confinement of up to 23 hours a day, enduring conditions of intense loneliness and deprivation, fighting for his life. Since his incarceration he has become a certified Yoga instructor, published writing and completed a distance paralegal diploma. Rob is an avid reader and enjoys books on psychology, art, history, and literature.

Rob Will was convicted and sentenced to death in 2001 for a crime he did not commit. More than 19 years later, he is still fighting for his life on Texas Death Row, in one of the most notorious prisons in America: the Allan B. Polunsky Unit. It is essential for awareness to be raised for this miscarriage of justice as Rob comes to the end of his appeals process. After being wrongfully convicted for half of his life, and surviving the most inhumane conditions possible, please help us achieve justice and bring Rob home.

FACTS OF INNOCENCE

Rob was convicted in the fatal shooting of a police officer based on circumstantial evidence, despite the fact that:

- Police radio logs prove he had been searched and handcuffed prior to the murder
- All forensic test results were inconsistent with Rob being the shooter
- Numerous different witnesses signed sworn affidavits that Rob's co-defendant confessed to the murder
- Several people witnessed the co-defendant at the apartment covered in blood
- County jail records show the co-defendant attempted to put a "hit" on Rob prior to trial
- The co-defendants finger prints, shoe casts, and other forensic evidence were never tested. His clothes were tested but due to thorough bleaching, no DNA could be extracted from the blood stains on them.

- Jason Flom

"This place, this prison, this death camp exists on a foundation of lies, deceit and half-truths. But with art we can tell our own truths and let the power of artistic expression be a truly revolutionary act."

- Rob Will

A US DISTRICT COURT JUDGE STATED IN 2012:

"On top of considerable evidence supporting Will's innocence and the important errors in the trial court, there must also be addressed the absence of eye-witness testimony or strongly probative evidence. Only circumstantial evidence supports Will's conviction and death sentence."

HE ALSO STATED IN 2018:

"This Court has repeatedly expressed deep concern for the factually complex insinuations that Will may be innocent of the crime for which he faces a death sentence. The Court is particularly sensitive to the absence of any direct evidence of Will's guilt, and the number of witnesses who aver that another man confessed to the underlying murder"

"The veracity of the evidence supporting his innocence is not even challenged or in question. The mismanagement of this case and the attendant evidence is nothing short of monumental"
